

found her lifeless; witness observed marks on her arms and temple as of an injury from the machinery; the whole time from her entering till she was found dead did not exceed five minutes; there was no person in the room but herself. Mr. Surgeon Cut-hill: had examined the body; there were several marks of violence on it, particularly on the left side of the body and head; the ribs on the left side and the left arm were fractured, and the spine appeared to have been fractured, and, in his opinion, death had been caused by these injuries. A verdict of Accidental death was recorded.—Herald.

THE REGISTRAR-GENERAL'S OFFICE.—The very great inconvenience that would accrue to the public if the office of the Registrar-General were to be closed, has induced Mr. Carter, the Registrar, to determine upon keeping open the office, and paying the expenses himself, until the next session of the Legislative Council, in the hope that by that time some arrangement for the payment of the expenses by the Government may have been made.

SUPREME COURT.—Criminal Sessions to be held at Darlinghurst, on the 6th January instant, and from that day to the 16th instant, both inclusive.—Notice: The Court will sit daily at nine o'clock in the morning, the first Monday, excepted, when the Court will sit at ten o'clock precisely, and the juries will be called over, and the trials commenced at half-past nine o'clock precisely, excepting only on Thursday, the 9th, Monday, the 13th, and Thursday, the 16th January, when the Court will sit at ten o'clock precisely.—By order of the Judges.—G. P. F. Gregory, Prothonotary.

POLICE.—His Excellency the Governor has appointed Mr. John Jones to be Chief Constable at Cassilis.

PORT PHILLIP MAIL.—Under the new arrangements, the Port Phillip mail will leave Sydney every Friday and Tuesday afternoon, arriving at Melbourne every Friday and Tuesday morning, and will leave Melbourne for Sydney the same days. The mails for Portland Bay and the other posts beyond Melbourne will only be sent on Fridays. The first mail under this arrangement was made up yesterday afternoon.

NEW POST OFFICES.—General Post Office, Sydney, 1st January, 1845.—Notice is hereby given, that His Excellency the Governor having been pleased to approve of the establishment of Post Offices, at Merriwa, situated between Merton and Cassilis, and Molong, between Bathurst and Wellington, parties wishing to receive their communications through those Post Offices, are advised to caution their correspondents to address their letters and Newspapers to those places distinctly by their names, and so secure their being duly forwarded to those Post Offices. JAMES RAYMOND, Postmaster-General.—Gov. Gazette.

NEW CHURCH.—The first stone of a church and school-house to be built at Balmain was laid yesterday, by the Bishop of Australia, with the usual ceremonies. The service of the day commenced by the Rev. F. Wilkinson reading, alternately with the people, the 122nd and 127th Psalm, and then the 4th chapter of Proverbs. The stone was then laid, the Bishop saying, "I lay this as the foundation and corner-stone of a church and school-house to be built at this place, to be set apart for the preaching of the right Catholic faith, which we believe and profess, and for the inculcation of sound learning and religious instruction in the principles of the Church of England." A portion of the 119th Psalm, "How shall the young preserve their ways," was then sung, and after the Apostle's Creed and a dedicatory prayer, the Bishop addressed the people, but the wind was so strong at the time that only those in the immediate vicinity of his Lordship could hear him. His address appeared to be divided into two parts. First, some observations on the importance of commencing and carrying on all the works in which we engage in a spirit of dependence upon the Almighty; and secondly, an exhortation to all to assist in providing and dispensing the advantages of a sound religious education. The site on which the building is to be erected is the gift of Mr. M. Metcalfe. There were a considerable number of persons present, amongst whom were the Revs. Dr. Cowper, R. Allwood, G. K. Rusden, W. B. Clarke, and Forrest.—Herald.

NEW WEEKLY JOURNAL.—An avowed rival has taken the field. The Southern Queen—the Queen of Sheba of course—comes to prove us with hard questions. She states the urgent need for her advent, and professes to seek distinction rather as the promoter of intellectual science, than the historian of those minor topics which feed the columns of the daily press. Vexed questions of local by-gones, she kindly promises to leave for the conjoint labours of our old and dear friend Nassau Senior, and "the learned writer on political economy retained by the ATLAS."—Prudent old soul! She, moreover, very confidently urges that "in comparison with the vivid, vigorous, and spirit-stirring articles of the Metropolitan Press of Great Britain, her paper will probably, and with justice, be deemed a very humble creation of intellectual labour;" but that "she rests her pretensions to public favor, rather on the soundness of her principles, than the ability of her compositions." After so modest a tribute to her own powers, it is with some reluctance we presume to offer an opinion as to the merits of Her Majesty's performance; but as she has 'nailed her colors to the mast,' we must do ourselves the honor of saluting them. As she leaves minor topics to the Sydney Herald, and political economy to Mr. Senior and ourselves, we presume that the department of 'intellectual science' is to be regarded as her forte, and we accordingly proceed to Her Majesty's drawing-room, or boudoir. Ah! the Queen of the South is a right regal poetess. "The modern bondage of rhyme," as Milton styled it, is unknown to her. The mounting falcon, even among the clouds, betrays his slavery by his bells; but Sheba's Queen disdains so vile a jingle. Let us take a sample from some "Lines written at the island of St. Paul's, in April 1844, portions of which were chequered with the alternate lights and shadows of a doubtful sky!!"

"Oh, spots of green are in deserts seen,
And sunbeams through the cloud;
To the darkest night succeeds the light
Of day without a shroud!"

"Then to Sydney's Sons, fair hope arise,
Though sullen fortune lour;
There is a balm below for every woe,
Bright thoughts for the darkest hour."

Now, to be hampered with the trammels of metre, is a bore which has annoyed other jinglers beside the Queen of Sheba. An obscure individual named VIRGIL, constructed the following bungling line:—

"Saxa vocant Itali medius quae in fluctibus aras."

and surely we ought not to sneer at the information, albeit rather immethodically conveyed to us, that

"There is a balm below for every woe"

Her Majesty, in a little bit of familiar coaxing and gossip with our friends the Squatters, tells them "how easily and how pleasantly will they mix up together all sorts of information, in due proportion with her main essential objects; but, while she will not quarrel with them if they "moralize, or poetize, or philosophize," she gives them to understand that she admireth the wisdom of His Excellency, Sir Solomon, and that it was a true story she heard in her own land of his acts and his prosperity. We are afraid, that under these circumstances our Squatting friends will not care how soon the Queen of Sheba turns and goes to her own country, she and her servants.

DR. ROSS'S BIBLE CLASS.—Having received an invitation from the young men composing this interesting class to attend a Social Meeting which was holden in the Congregational Chapel on New Year's evening, we did ourselves the pleasure of obeying the summons, and have singular satisfaction in recording the proceedings on the occasion. The members of this class, over which Dr. Ross has presided for the last two years, had determined to present their esteemed pastor with a new year's gift, and the congregation were accordingly invited to witness its presentation. After tea, Mr. David Jones took the chair, when the gift, a valuable gold watch, bearing a suitable inscription, was presented to Dr. Ross by one of the class, who at the same time delivered a very appropriate and affectionate address. Dr. Ross, in feeling terms, expressed his thanks for the manner in which this class had chosen to evince their sense of his labors in the sacred cause, and adverted at some length to the importance and necessity of pursuing a study by which they would be led to great degrees of piety and knowledge. The Rev. R. Mansfield, the Rev. W. Jarratt, of Hobart Town, the Rev. T. M. Adams, and Mr. Fairfax, also addressed the meeting. The latter gentleman entered into some exceedingly interesting particulars in reference to a Ladies' Bible Class, over which Dr. Ross has also presided for a length of time; and as it appeared that some of the fair members had been a little "put out" by not having been invited to join in the new year's gift, Mr. F. suggested that, in the course of the present year, they should obtain contributions for an organ for the new chapel now in course of erection for the congregation. This proposal was met with much applause from the gentlemen, and approving smiles from the ladies; and after a most agreeably spent evening the meeting separated about ten o'clock. In addition to the members of the congregation, the Right Worshipful the Mayor and family, and several large parties of citizens, were among the visitors.

SENDING ANONYMOUS INDELICATE LETTERS.—A number of indelicate letters have lately been forwarded to several respectable females in Sydney. About half-past nine o'clock on Monday evening, a man named James M'Mahon took one of them to a highly respectable house, where several of them had been previously sent; he was immediately seized by the servant girl, and held fast until he was given into the charge of the police. In defence, when brought up on Tuesday before Alderman Macdermott and Mr. Miles, the head of the Police, the prisoner stated that a man, unknown to him, had employed him to carry the letter to its address for hire. As there was no evidence to rebut his statement, the Alderman, previous to discharging him, admonished him as to his future conduct, and expressed his determination to punish with the utmost severity every one convicted before him of insulting respectable people by sending such letters. Mr. Miles having also expressed his determination to put forth all the energies of the police in unmasking such miscreants, told the prisoner that if he ever found out that he knew who had employed him, he would have him instantly again apprehended, and punished to the utmost extent of the law. M'Mahon was then discharged.

CRICKET MATCHES.—The first match this season was played on the new ground, Hyde Park, on Wednesday last, between the Victoria and Currency clubs: Alderman Flood and Councillor Driver acting as umpires. The Victoria commenced the 1st innings and made 81 runs. The Currency followed and scored 222 runs, leaving a majority in their favour of 141 runs. After a little refreshment the Victoria renewed the play, and had only been able to score 97 runs at dusk, leaving but four wickets to go down, to prevent their being beaten in one innings, and they have since resigned the contest. The batting of Still, on the Victoria side, was much admired—scoring from his own hits 52 runs in the first innings, when he was caught out, and 59 runs in the second innings without losing his wicket. His style of batting is, we think, superior to any other player in New South Wales. The fielding of the Currency was very good particularly the slow Bowling of Sly and the back stopping of M'Keon. The batting of John Tunks excited much attention, making from his own bat 112 runs in a masterly manner, without losing his wicket, and he was ably supported by the other players. It is expected this club will soon contest the game with the Australians, and if they play in the same style they need have no fear as to the result. The single wicket match between the veteran Clarkson with Bennett and Thomson; and Wood, with Fitzpatrick and W. Still, was commenced on Saturday last, and continued until sundown notwithstanding the Southerly gale. It will be resumed again on Monday evening next. This match from the well known skill of the players will it is supposed be the best contested of any that has taken place in the Colony.

COLONIAL HORSES.—We take the following letter from a recent number of the Madras Athenaeum, with the hope that some explanation of the circumstance referred to may be given by some one interested. As it stands, there is certainly something very ugly in the statement: "Australian Mares.—To the Editor of the Athenaeum. Dear Sir,—I shall feel greatly obliged if you, or some of your sporting readers, will explain for my instruction and perhaps that of some other equally ignorant mortal—how it happens that mares in New South Wales turn out so wonderfully prolific as the pedigree list, I do myself the pleasure to enclose, proves them to be. Why, Sir, that mare called Stride, is much more like a rabbit in her habits, for she literally produces a litter of nine in the season of 1840, and must be a large fortune to her lucky owner, for in another year she has a snug litter of four ready for the Sydney Mail, and two for his own carriage the year before that. She however is not the only valuable brood mare in the country, for you will perceive the "Cleveland" mare has twins, and "Shaik" throws triplets, so that it is no wonder we get so many of these horses sent here, or they would overrun their parent country. Perhaps if this novelty in breeding were brought to the notice of the Most Noble the Marquis, who knows, I understand, as much or more about these things than most men, he might consider it worth while despatching some efficient officer of the Commissariat Department to New South Wales, to obtain information on this head that would be valuable to the Oosoor establishment, or else prove that the breeders in New South Wales think us poor Indians to be greater fools than we look. Yours, truly, STRIDE MARE. Sultan, General, Captain, Fire-away—four three year old colts, by "Stride" mare. Emperor, Jacky Jacky, Bonaparte, Jessy, Minna, Ellen, Matilda, Lucy Ann, Princess—nine four year old colts, by "Stride" mare. Top-sail, Giant—two five year olds by "Stride" mare. Lanky, Tommy—two four year old colts, by "Cleveland" mare. Rover, Snowball, Blucher—three five year olds, out of "Shaik" mare."—Herald.

TALLOW OIL.—The Port Phillip Patriot states that Mr. Bullen has succeeded in expressing oil of the purest description from tallow, by means of a hydraulic press. It burns with the greatest brilliancy, and can be supplied with much less cost than the black oil. The residuary tallow being rendered of a firmer consistence, by the extraction of its oil, makes a finer candle. The importation of American sperm candles would be rendered in a great degree unnecessary, if our candles were made of tallow thus hardened. There is no expense or loss incurred in the process, inasmuch as the expressed oil is quite as valuable as the tallow from which it is extracted, and the residuary fat is more valuable, or at least more useful, than before it was submitted to compression. The oil expressed from tallow is used not only for burning in lamps, but for making the finer soaps.

The following is an extract from the Prospectus of Captain Stokes's new work on New Holland:—"By permission of the Lords Commissioners of the Admiralty. New Lands in Australia; discoveries of the Victoria, Adelaide, Albert, and Fitzroy Rivers, and expeditions into the interior described; with an account of the hitherto unknown coasts, surveyed during the voyage of H.M.S. Beagle between the years 1837 and 1843; also, a narrative of the visits of H.M.S. Britomart, Commander Owen Stanley, to the islands in the Arafura Sea. By J. Lort Stokes, commander R.N. With maps, charts, and numerous illustrations, 2 vols. 8vo. The Beagle sailed from England early in the year 1837, and returned towards the close of 1843. During that period, besides the ordinary incidents of naval adventure, many circumstances of the highest interest marked the progress of her voyage. Unknown shores and untraversed plains upon the north and north-west coasts of Australia have been added to our geographical knowledge. An inroad into the interior, reaching within 500 miles of the very centre of the great Australian continent, has been accomplished. The rivers Victoria, Adelaide, Albert, and Fitzroy, all discovered by the expedition to which this narrative relates, attest its triumph in an object of primary importance. Great additions have been made to the several departments of Natural History, the various specimens having been classified and described by some of the most eminent Naturalists. The north-west coast of Australia has been carefully surveyed; and Bass' Strait, heretofore so justly dreaded by the masters of ships, may now be navigated with the safety that ought to distinguish the high road between England and Sydney. The charts of the passage through Torres' Strait, by the inner route, have been improved, and a safe-channel discovered through Endeavour Strait: while anchorages—especially at Western and Southern Australia—now correctly laid down, and doubtful positions finally assigned, prove that in the unpretending though important duties of surveying, the officers of the Expedition failed not to do justice to the cause wherein they were engaged. Notices of Teneriffe, San Salvador, the Brazils, the Cape of Good Hope, the Mauritius, its Hurricanes, and the numerous islands, waters, and lands of Australia, now first discovered and described, will be found in the earlier portions of the work, and an account of the interesting visits of H.M.S. Britomart, to the islands in the Arafura Sea, prepared by Capt. Stanley, enriches the latter."

H. BROWN, Head Master.

Monday, December 30, 1844.

MR. GEORGE A. LLOYD, in again introducing himself to the notice of the public, from whom he has experienced such extensive patronage, begs to state that he is about to resume his business as Auctioneer and General Commission Agent, and trusts, by attention to the interests committed to his care, and punctuality in rendering account sales, to secure a portion of the support he formerly received.

G. A. L.'s terms will be the same as other auctioneers'; and from the intimate knowledge he possesses of the business, obtained during three years' close application to it, he feels convinced that any sales entrusted to him will be effected to the satisfaction of his employers.

The public and trade in general are informed, that, as the business will be conducted almost exclusively for cash, and as the present system will not admit of large establishments, the services of a collecting clerk must be dispensed with; consequently, no goods can be delivered from the rooms until paid for.

The Stores of G. A. L. are ready for the reception of merchandise, wool, or other goods intended for sale: for the arrangement of which they afford every facility.
