RHYMES FOR THE TIMES.

BUZ THE SECOND. BY TATUS TICKLEM, RSQ,

Author of " The Browns." "THE FLYING PIEMAN."

> Good people listen unto me. I sing a merry song, sirs, Of all the funny things I see, As I walk the streets along, sirs, A sober sadness seems to reign. Look any way you will, sirs, Rach business face expresses plain, I've got to meet my bell, sirs.

But don't you now down hearted grow Cheer up and never sigh man : The way to laugh I mean to sho r, Come listen to the lieman.

Fome folks may call me low, 'tis true, A vulgar sort of fellow; As street on street I travel through And "Rolla" and "Hot Pies" bellow. But let them curl their lip at me, And sueer at my vocation -It suits me well, because you see, I'm a man of observation. So don't you now, &c.

The Hlying Pieman is my name, My feats to all are known, sirs : Extensive is my walking fame, The champion's belt I own, sirs, Old Time, they say, keeps running on, But backed against him oft 1've been, And never failed to beat him So don't you now, &c

I carry out the latest news. And certain persons guess, sirs, That I, myself, do court the muse, And scribble for the press, sits. There's Captain Brown, I met in town, He looked at me severe, sirs, Because, I sang a certain song, The people's hearts to cheer, sirs. So don't you now, &c.

My verses all are like my ples, So spicy, sweet, and savoury; I open all the people's eyes To legislative knavery ! I mean to take my seat, myself, And then a change you ll see, sirs, I'll shew up all their love of pelf, I hough a government nominee, sirs. ] Eo don t you now, &co

There's Lawyer Dick, and Doctor Nick, Of paitry savings, bounce, sira: But oh, to see on ev ry fee How eagerly they pounce, sire; On principle they preach and vote, Without a taint or spot, sirs : like me, they've got their tale by rote, And sing it out 'all hot,' sirs.

The daily papers are not r ad, The great and little "Hore," sirs, For folks on satire must be fed, And the weeklies they a lore, sire, On humdrum speeches all agree, They've feasted to satisty : And now in crowds they come to me, For the humble Pee's vari-ty. So don t you now, &z.

Each guilty conscience fears its sting -Each good one craves its honey; But all agree its just the thing, To take the people's money. Some articles I mean to write. Of interest I'm certain: And then our readers we'll invite, To a peep behind the curtain.

So don't you now, &c

CONGREGATIONAL EDUCATION MOVE-MENT.-Meetings have this week been held at Bradford, Leeds, Halifax, and Huddersfield, to carry forward this movement. They have been attended by C. Hindly, Esq., M.P., and the Rev. Dr. well in this good cause .- Lecds Mercury.

was placed in power by the agricultural party, to defend them against the League. three years, to their great enemy? Who always to have practised the strictest economy could have believed, when Sir Robert Peel denounced Mr. Cobden, in Feb. 1843, on the floor of the House of Commons, that in the next session he would owe his majority to Mr. Cobden? * * We must, therefore. warn our readers that the beginning of the end has just come. It has come undoubtedly at an earlier time, and is accompanied by circumstances which were not expected. But it has not come without putting the Corn-law Cabinet under obligations to the Anti-Corn-law League. It has exhibited a Tory Cabinet under the shelter of parties with whom they were supposed to have the greatest differencesthe friends of agriculture under the wing of Lord Radnor's son; and as if the genius of retribution required still greater sacrifices. the sliding scale sustained under the ample ægis of Mr. Cobden.—Chronicle.

MEETING AT THE CARLTON .- A meeting was held in the drawing room of the Carlton Club on Sunday afternoon. Between sixty and seventy members of Parliament were present, Sir John Yarde Buller taking the chair. Mr. Mackenzie said he was authorised to state, that if the meeting then assembled would unanimously sign a declaration of confidence in Sir R. Peel's government, he would not resign office, but continue to conduct the affairs of the country. Mr. Christopher was still prepared to sign a declaration of confidence in the government rather than let in the Whigs. Lord Sandon professed himself willing to sign a general declaration of confidence, reserving to himself, Howard Douglas was prepared to vote unlimited confidence. Mr. Blackstone declined to support so extensive a delaration. Mr. Blakemore said, that the meeting was one of Conservatives, and he was surprised therefore at Mr. Ferrand's presence. Mr. D'Isreali challenged Mr. Blakemore to a definition of Conservatism, hut Mr. Blakemore declined so embarrassing a task:-Several members expressed their dread of a declaration of "unlimited confidence," as they were quife in the dark as to the Minister's future measures, and knew not which interest might be next assailed. The meeting, which was very noisy, and evidently far from unanimous, clesed without coming to any decision. The question, How can we meet our constituents? was frequently and anxiously repeated.

ALARMING DISCLOSURES. (From a Report by the "Punch" Commissioners on the Causes of National Distress.)

THE Commissioners, by Punch appointed for the Investigation of National Distress, have just completed their task. They have found that the said distress has been very properly called national. inasmuch as it pervades all ranks; the circles termed exclusive not being excluded Here follows an extract from the report, what light it throws unon the subject, let the public judge :-

"Lord Viscount Martingale examined-Is a married nobleman, with a lady and large family; has estates in the north of England; they are extensive, but extensively mortgaged also; clear rental about £5000 a year, but finds it very diffi cult to live on that sum; can hardly make both ends meet; attimes has not a guinea in his pocket; has a seat in the House of Lords, also a box at the opera; the latter is £200 a year; has had transactions with gentlemen of the Hebrew persuasion; has paid fifty or sixty per cent. for ready money; is connected with the turf; lost £1000 last year on the Derby; is a member of Crockford's; often loses £200 a night there; thinks that a trifle; is is also member of the Carlton Club; has spent £8000 or 10,000 in his time on electioneering has a mansion in Belgrave square, and a seat in York. shi e; keeps a large stud of horses and twenty or thirty servants: gives frequent dinners, soirces, and defeuners a la fourchette; has a yacht; Lady M. lives in the first style of fashion; has two carriages of her own; how much he owes his wine merchant, tailor, upholsterer, and other tradesmen heaven only knows; has himself no idea; but it is a great deal; considers himself to be in great distress; in fact, how he contrives to manage at all he is really unable to say; perhaps his steward and solicitor might; is much fatigued with his present examination; votes busines a horrid bore; his broughom is waiting; begs to wish the committee a good morning.

Mr John Jackson examined - Is a hosier and linen draper at the West End; pays £300 a year for his place of business; has a suburban villa at Chapham; gives £!60 per annum for that it is called Belle vue House; has a wife and five Reed, as a deputation from London, and grown up daughters - the latter have been brought Green Peas, ditto .... 0000.000 the ministers and leading members of the up at a first rate seminary; they play, sing and water Cresses, per plate .... 0 0 0 .. 0 0 1 body have assisted. At Bradford £3700 speak French and Italian; but cannot bake or Celery, per stick .... 0 0 2 .. 0 0 has already been raised, and the sum is ex- | brew; parties who could command £1000 a year pected to reach not less than £5000. At would find them eligible partners; that would be Leeds only one congregation has yet made the lowest figure; his domestic establishment con any regular effort, which has raised £1000. sists of three maid servants, a man, and a knife At Halifax £2030 was announced at the boy; Mrs. J. calls the latter a page; keeps a horse meeting. We have not yet heard the and gig, house elegantly furnished; tables maamount at Huddersfield, where a meeting hogany; chairs rosewood; carpets, Brussels; was held last night. On the whole, the piano. Broadwood; mode of living, plain and West Riding of Yorkshire is likely to do respectable; dinner, three courses and dessert, takes his bottle or so a day; wine superior; cannot AN ODD TURN OF THE WHEEL .- Who think how it is, but his expenditure greatly exceeds could have believed that a Ministry which his income; embarked late'y in an extensive speculation in woollens, which has failed; is on Butter per lb (to dealers) .... 0 1 0 .. 0 0 the eve of ban ruptcy; may be able to pay Is. in Butter, Glenlee, per lb (retail) .... 0 0 0 .. 0 1 6 would have owed their existence, within the pound, but is not certain; believes himself Dittic, other make, ditto .... 0 1 4 .. 0 0 0

"William Wilkins examined - Is a mechanic has a wife and four small children, all in great | Candles ditto .. ... ... 0 0 3 .. 0 0 0 want; wife pawned her last blanket this morning Lard, ditto .... .... 0 0 4 .. 0 0 6 to buy bread; children in rags; two pair of shoes and a half, out at heel, between the four : is turned of thirty; earns from twenty to thirty shillings a week, according to work done; belongs to a club which meets twice a week at the White Horse; they meet to smoke a pipe and be sociable talk about politics and other matters, and sings songs; own allowance, on an average, two pots a night; may sometimes go as as far as a gallon; the White Horse has a skittle ground-is in the habit of playing there; on such occasions drinks more or less, as the case may be; takes his 'drop' on most days, besides beer; comes home at night sometimes a little the worse for liquor; is generally unfit for work the next day; knows that some workmen with wives and families get only nine shillings or ten shillings a week; can't tell how they live upon it; nobody could be worse off than himself; doesn't see at all how his distress is to be accounted

The Punch commissioners have examined, be sides the above, great numbers of the nobility. gentry, members of parliament, and of the learned professions, besides multitudes of the working classes, whose incomes, though for their respective stations apparently considerable, are far exceeded by their expenditure. The consequent distress is enormous. This, however, is universally agreed by the examined, has no sort of connexion with their habits; and is by no means to be ascribed to their own fault, but to the badness of the times Many operatives, agricultural labourers and needle women, who are starving on a few shillings a week however, a right of private judgment. Sir | have also been interrogated They impute their destitution to the avarice and selfishness of their emplayers; but of course this opinion is untenable.

James West, Mast, Oar, and Gun Carriage maker. Block and Pump Manufacturer, Windmill street, Fort street, Darling Harbour, between the properties of Mr. Irvine, and Messrs. Aspinall and Brown,

THE FLOOR OF THE SHED Is capable of doing the Mast and Block work of all the Marine that ever comes to this port, having 84 feet depth by proportionate breadth, well built and covered in, 91 feet wharf, runs out to deep water. There are four very comfortable rooms built for the family in the roof, with a balcony overlooking the harbour, and the beautiful resi sidences and villas at the North shore There is a counting house, and entrance to a small ward leading to the dwelling house, which has 38 feet frontage, in Windmill street, by 31 feet depth, more or less. THE STREET FLOOR,

OR BNTNANCE FROM WINDMILL-STREET. Contains two capital rooms in front, finished off in the best possible style of workmanship and material. The two rooms at the back open into a balcony, by French windows. The rooms have stoves, and fit for immediate occupation, the house being quite new, and has been hardly inhabited.

From this back room you obtain a most splendid view of the most romantic and picturesque part of the country on the opposite side; and it is quite embarrassing to describe the intensity of interest felt whilst beholding the hundreds of happy pic-nic boating parties in the season flitting up and down the channel.

THE NEXT FLOOR Comprises a good kitchen with a large lined sink, store room, bedroom and convenient pantry

Contains a very extensive laundry, with a new copper, large cellar and store room besides. An additional room, with a spring of water, supplying a reservoir for general and a plentiful tamily use There is a yard attached, paled in, and about thirty one feet in depth. P. S -These rooms are famous for height, and
